I would here make note that in supplying an artificial eye, care should be taken to see that there is no corneal tissue prominent enough to touch the back of the shell, and that it fits evenly and smoothly. Pressure upon any point of the conjunctiva will soon create inflammation, and often adhesion, and in the course of time render the cavity so small that none can be worn. The best and most natural artificial eyes that I have seen are those manufactured by Ludvvig Miiller, in Thiiringen, Germany. They are made of perfectly pure glass, and contain no irritating substances. They are now presented to the profession and public by Dr. Theo. Roth, of this city, who has the general agency for this country.--Medical and. Surgical Reporter. QynxmltxQy and Biseases ni 8hilttoe-. Vesico-Vaginal...
