Edmund Burke Reflections on the Revolution in France is a political pamphlet written by the British statesman Edmund Burke and published in November 1790. One of the best-known intellectual attacks against the French Revolution, Reflections is a defining tract of modern conservatism as well as an important contribution to international theory. Above all else, it has been one of the defining efforts of Edmund Burke s transformation of traditionalism into a self-conscious and fully conceived political philosophy of conservatism. The pamphlet has not been easy to classify. Academics have had trouble identifying whether Burke, or his tract, can best be understood as a realist or an idealist, Rationalist or a Revolutionist. Thanks to its thoroughness, rhetorical skill, and literary power, it has become one of the most widely known of Burke s writings and a classic text in political theory. In the twentieth century, it greatly influenced conservative and classical liberal intellectuals, who recast Burke s Whiggish arguments as a critique of communist and revolutionary-socialist programmes.It may not be unnecessary to inform the reader that the following Reflections had their origin in a correspondence between the author and a very young gentleman at Paris, who did him the honor of desiring his opinion upon the important transactions which then, and ever since have, so much occupied the attention of all men. An answer was written some time in the month of October, 1789; but it was kept back upon prudential considerations. That letter...
