Suppose you suddenly forget how to drive home ? Suppose you forget the names of your neighbors, spouse or children ? Suppose you forget where you live ? Suppose you forget that you ate your last meal ten minutes earlier or you completely forget to eat ? Suppose you forget today's date-month, day and year ? Suppose you forget your birthday ? Welcome to the world of Alzheimer !! This book exposes and explores your frequently asked questions about Alzheimer-numbers, percentages, behavior, what to do with the patient all day long, and what not to do ? Most importantly, it answers the question, WHY. Why do Alzheimer patients act this way ? Annie Kate Gaskins Laws is a caregiver, a retired high school counselor, and an Alzheimer Support Group Coordinator. This is her second book on Understanding Alzheimer. She created the Can This Be Love column published in Central Florida Newspapers and The Tri-County Challenger in 1991. She is one of eleven 1985 National Essay Special Award Winners...
